There's never really a perfect time to foster or adopt; just a lot of opportunities to say 'yes' despite the many reasons we may have to say 'no.' Perhaps for you, the thing you need to be most aware of is the capacity of God to use you in ways you never thought possible - if you would simply be willing to say 'yes.'

Let's Pray:

- For permanent and stable families to step forward to adopt youth
- For older children and children with special needs to receive families
- That children can keep a healthy relationship with siblings and other relatives where appropriate
- For help with educational needs during tough times and transitions
- That mental health needs can be addressed and cared for
- That children and families can forge strong bonds and an open and loving relationship

God loves and defends those with the least economic and social power, and so should we. That is what it means to "do justice"...From Ancient times, the God of the Bible stood out from the gods of other religions as a God on the side of the powerless, and of justice for the poor.

There is no such thing as JUST or ONLY when it comes to adoption. You can never overestimate the importance of making a difference for ONE child.

It's often said that
"adopting a child
won't change the world, but for that child, the world will change."

I disagree.

Adopting one child
WILL and DOES
change the world. The generational ripple
effects are far more than we could ever
possibly measure.

We're not just for international adoption. And we're not just for local adoption. We're for children knowing the protection, nurture and love of family. That means we're for both local adoption and international adoption...and much more besides. And whatever our unique calling and specialization, we can all work together for these worthy ends.

The children who have been adopted aren't a ministry project;
they're people.
The women who choose
adoption for their child
aren't stereotypes;
they're image-bearers.
And the families who are choosing to adopt aren't
saints;
they're broken people in need of a Savior just like everyone else.

It takes more than a village to raise a child.

It takes a CHURCH.

At least for those of us in Christ.

Learn to do right;
seek justice.
Defend the oppressed.
Take up the cause
of the fatherless;
plead the case of the widow.
